IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
HOUSTON DIVISION

IN RE:	§
	§	CASE NO: 26-35787
STAOC CORP,	§
	§
Debtor.	§
	§
	§	CHAPTER 11

ORDER

The Emergency Motion to Extend Cash Collateral Usage (ECF No. 36) is denied without prejudice. The Court agrees that there is a 5-day gap between the Cash Collateral Order expiring and the final hearing, however, the Court fails to see how this is irreparable harm.

Any payments due within the five-day gap should be easily delayed until a final order is entered or paid prior to the cash collateral order's expiration. The pleading that "[t]his gap, which includes a federal holiday, may cause irreparable harm to the Debtor if it is not able to pay its vendors, employees, or any other ordinary course of business expenses" is generic and non-specific. The cash collateral order ends on Thursday, September 3, 2026. The following Monday, September 7 is a federal holiday, Labor Day. The Court fails to see how any expenses due over three days, a Friday, Saturday or Sunday could not either be paid prior to the expiration of the cash collateral order or on the day of the final order which will be Tuesday, September 8, 2026.

The motion appears unnecessary absent specific facts not plead in the motion by the debtor. It is therefore denied without prejudice.

SO ORDERED.
