Mr. Park is a Senior Editor at S&P Global Market Intelligence's Leveraged Commentary & Data (LCD) covering the global CLO market and debt fundraising.

Prior to joining S&P he covered the non-agency RMBS market at Thomson Reuters International Financing Review (IFR) including bondholder litigation over breaches of representations and warranties on pre-crisis deals including the bankruptcy estate of Lehman Brothers as well as the settlements related to Countrywide Financial, J.P. Morgan, Citigroup, and Washington Mutual.

He has also briefly had experience reviewing policy memos on GSE reform at President George W. Bush's White House Council of Economic Advisers in 2005.

Andrew graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Finance from George Washington University. He also jointly runs the Morris Academy Mentors program in the South Bronx focusing on tutoring and mentoring high school students.
