

JAL Group Applies for Revision of IATA International Fares to & from Japan

Tokyo, Wednesday December 21, 2005: Today, the JAL Group filed an application with the Japanese Ministry of Land Infrastructure, and Transport (MLIT) requesting a revision of IATA international airfares to and from Japan, based on agreements adopted at IATA Tariff Coordinating Conferences held during the year.

For fares from Japan, the main revision is an increase in the weekend airfare to North America, the Caribbean, Europe, the Middle East, Hawaii, Micronesia, Southeast Asia and China.

The revision will take effect from April 1, 2006 pending government approval in Japan and other relevant countries.

IATA International Weekend Airfare Increase Details

| Travel from Japan to: | IATA Fare type | One-way | Round-trip* |
|---|----------------|-----------|-------------|
| Europe, North America, the Caribbean, & the Middle East | Normal | JPY 4,000 | JPY 8,000 |
| | PEX | - | JPY 4,000 |
| Hawaii ((New weekend airfare to be introduced)) | PEX | - | JPY8000 |
| Micronesia | PEX | - | JPY2,000 |
| China, Southeast Asia | Normal | JPY 2,000 | JPY 4,000 |
| | PEX | - | JPY 2,000 |

* Outbound and inbound flight departures both occur on the weekend

Example: Business Class Round-trip IATA Normal Fare (Weekend)

| Example | Current (JPY) | Revised (JPY) |
|-------------------|---------------|---------------|
| Tokyo - New York | 733,400 | 741,400 |
| Tokyo - London | 933,200 | 941,200 |
| Tokyo - Hong Kong | 241,400 | 245,400 |

###